hardison/downey was honored to accept the award of “General Contractor of the Year” from the design community at the 2017 IIDA PRIDE Awards on Friday, April 28. David Hobart with McCarthy Nordburg nominated h/dc for the award saying, “They provide unwavering support to the design professional, consistent with their industry know-how and processes across the company. They exceed expectations with their communications, honesty, integrity, knowledge of the partners in the design community and are the secret ingredient to making projects succeed.” The award is displayed proudly among others in the h/d office.

Many New Faces at h/d

hardison/downey is on path for a record-breaking year. Due to the current and upcoming workload, 14 new employees, including three (3) project managers, six (6) project superintendents, four (4) project engineers and one (1) marketing coordinator have joined the team since January 2017. These new faces will assist before, during and after the construction of projects to allow a smooth process from beginning to end. We have a great team that will be working with us to surpass our goal and be a part of a potentially record year in 2017!

FEATURED EMPLOYEE

10 THINGS YOU DON'T KNOW ABOUT RICH WHERTY (senior project manager)

1 At the Pine, AZ, July 4th celebration in 2007, I was the watermelon seed spitting champion.

8 My first job was washing dishes over the weekend at The Wigwam resort making minimum wage, which was $3.35 an hour.

2 In 1976, I was a part of the Squirt B South Shore Conference Hockey team that won the championship in Canton, MA. Our team photo was on the front of the Canton Journal—I still have a copy.

9 In Pembroke, MA, I lived in a house built in 1695 (the oldest house in the town), and when my parents bought the land, it included five different family cemeteries.

3 I lived in Cape Cod, MA, when they were filming JAWS.

10 I am one of the founding fathers of the Theta Gamma Chapter of Delta Tau Delta Fraternity at ASU, which is still an active chapter. Pledges still have to remember my name (plus 18 others) to be accepted into the frat.

4 In 1982, my sophomore class submitted a Jungle Book themes float for the Walt Disney-themed “Billy Moore Days” parade. Our float won and I was THE jungle boy! (And yes, that is my real hair).

5 I graduated from Agua Fria High School in Avondale in 1984—I’m an owl.

6 I am a huge car fanatic (if it wasn’t for auto shop, I probably wouldn’t have graduated from high school). I love hot rods and muscle cars. My dream car is a ‘68 Corvette 427 Tri-Power!

7 I am married and have two children. Jessica, 19, attends U of A, and Jack, 15, attends Horizon High School. My wife is labor & delivery nurse at Banner University Medical Center Phoenix.
